ORANGE COUNTY
2020 CHARTER REVIEW COMMISSION
PUBLIC HEARING

ORLANDO, FLORIDA – Orange County 2020 Charter Review Commission Chair Camille Evans announces the first of six public hearings scheduled for Orange County citizens.

DISTRICT 5

Wednesday, May 1, 2019
at 6:00 p.m. –

Winter Park Community Center
721 W. New England Avenue
Orlando, Florida 32789

The Charter Review Commission is endeavoring to reach out to all citizens of the county by holding public hearings in several communities. It is the desire of the commission to have Orange County citizens speak at the public hearings regarding any issues they have concerning their charter and our Orange constitution. In order to have effective county government, it is essential that the Orange County Charter reflect the concerns of its citizens. Your opinion is important and will be considered when preparing referendums for the general election of November 2020. We look forward to a large number of Orange County citizens attending these public hearings and speaking before the Charter Review Commission.

The public is invited to attend and be heard regarding any desired change to the Orange County Charter. It would be very useful if a one-page briefing document and proposed charter language could be brought to the hearing for the CRC. You are encouraged to review all proposals under consideration and those acted upon by visiting <https://www.occompt.com/clerk-of-the-bcc/charter-2020/>

You may email us at charter2020@occompt.com with your recommendations, if you are not able to attend one of the CRC public hearings.

Additional public hearings will be planned within each of Orange County's districts.
