SUBJECT: July 26, 2022 – Discussion Item
Sunrail Transition Overview

At present the Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) has the sole responsibility for the development, design, engineering, construction, installation, procurement, operation, and maintenance of the SunRail system. Through a series of agreements, the Central Florida Commuter Rail Commission (CFCRC) presently acts in an advisory capacity to the FDOT and is comprised of five funding partners (Orange County, Osceola County, Seminole County, Volusia County, and the City of Orlando).

Pursuant to the agreements, the responsibility of the operations and maintenance (and other applicable functions) will transition from that of the FDOT to the CFCRC (the five funding partners). The transfer of these responsibilities is scheduled to take place in June of 2024. A presentation will be provided to the Board outlining the transition process and associated impacts to the County.

This item is for informational purposes only; no action is required by the Board.
